Note.

A Return of Thos Cochran's part was made last fall, on which he obtain'd a Patent, since which it is found to be erroneous. ^{that} At time one side only was measured, and the return compleated from a former survey of Finly's, supposing the lines to be all parellel. I have now made a survey of the whole, corrected the errors and divided it for the parties agreeably to their contract. Mr. Cochran will return his old patent in order to obtain a new one to describe the land agreeably to the above return. Robt Mc Cartney will also apply for a patent for his part of the tract.
