

Particularly interesting are the claims of Hugh Keys, items 141-153, for his work on the Skew-Arch bridge near Hollidaysburg.

W2-e. 26. JUNIATA DIVISION - Land Damages and other claims

Here, indexed from Cameron, Robert through Shoenfelt, A., but uncalendared and running through many years, 1832 - 1858, are chiefly claims of property holders against the pre-emption of their lands for the use of the Juniata Canal.

There also occur in the volume claims for arrears in payments for supplies or services.

W2-e. 27. JUNIATA DIVISION - Land Damage Claims, etc. - Vol. 2

Here are claims of property holders and others, uncalendared, but running in scattered years, 1830 - 1857. They are indexed for Dysert, J. and then from Landis, Jno through Yortey, Mary.

W2-e. 28. JUNIATA DIVISION - Land Damages and other claims - Vol. 3

Here the title of the volume is deceptive. The book reveals only a few claims conected with the division and only a minority of correspondence connected with that canal division.

Logically, the volume belongs to the PAPERS of the PENNSYLVANIA BOARD of CANAL COMMISSIONERS: its contents embrace many letters connected with several divisions of the canal during the early years 1825 - 1830; letters of legislators, canal commissioners, and engineers; and, among other figures, Governor DeWitt Clinton of New York State.
