

the Union Canal; William Read, president of the Union Canal Company; and Engineer Anthony B. Warford, brother-in-law of Simon Cameron (who, includes here, amother other things, a plan for a weighmaster's house at Portsmouth (Middletown)

W2-e. 7. EASTERN DIVISION - Reports and Miscellaneous Documents, Vol. 2
c. 1831-33 - 1840

This volume, also undated on its cover, presents much of the official correspondence of the division during the first decade after its completion in 1834.

Indexed here are a number of outstanding men: John P. Baily, engineer; Simon Cameron, here (23 July 1830) proposing to build the dam across the Susquehanna at Duncan's Island; John Forrey, canal commissioner; Jacob Foreman, supervisor; Edw. F. Gay, engineer; Simon Gratz, president of the Wiconisco Coal Company; James Hopkins, builder and owner of the Hopkins Canal of which, in item 37, he furnishes an excellent draught showing its relation to Falmouth and the Conewago Falls; Wm. K. Huffnagle, engineer; J. B. Lyon, supervisor; Francis Rawn Shunk, secretary to the Canal Board; A. B. Warford, engineer; and Dr. Charles T. Whippo, engineer, earlier the builder of the North Branch Division Canal to Nanticoke

W2-e. 8. EASTERN DIVISION - Reports and Miscellaneous Documents, 1841 - 1858 - Vol. 1

This volume indexes the names of a number of officials: James Clarke, president of the Canal Board; David Mitchell, Jr., secretary to the Board; Collector at Columbia J. I. Given, who names as his assistant, Thomas A. Scott who will, in turn, later