

The figure consists of two scatter plots side-by-side. The left plot shows a positive correlation between the number of children (x-axis) and the number of mothers (y-axis). The right plot shows a negative correlation between the number of children (x-axis) and the number of mothers (y-axis). Both plots include a regression line and data points.

[illegible]